Evaluating your Vision

There are various different ways to write and evaluate your Theologically Rooted Christian Vision, this model is not the definitive 'correct' way, it is a model which you may find helpful, and it can be especially useful in evaluating your vision.

One way you might use this model to write a vision statement: us the prompts below to consider 'Who are we'. What are the shared values that define who you are as a school, what does flourishing look like in your school? How does Theology speak in this? As a result of this, when people leave your school, how do they go out into the world?

One way you might use this model to evaluate an existing vision statement: place your school vision in the center of the sheet, use 3 different coloured highlighters to identify where your vision talks about what happens in your school, where your vision talks about God, and where your vision talks about how you are preparing children for the world beyond school. Is there any area that you think could be strengthened?

IN – to others

- The shared values that enable us to live and work well together in community. (Colossians 3: 12-16)
- Relationships built on love with each other, in our school and community. (John 13:34)
- Our Christian foundation that connects us with Diocesan schools and Christians all over the world.
- Invitational and inclusive collective worship at the centre.
- Welcome, hospitality and inclusion of all.
- A place of learning

OUT – to the world

- Our interdependence on each other
- Our shared love for one another and the world.
- Following God's call to be stewards of the world. (Genesis 2: 26-28)
- Following God's call to care compassionately for the poor and marginalised and stand up for the oppressed. (Zechariah 7: 9-10)
